THE STORY OF PINOTAGE

The incredible series of coincidences behind the foundation of the Pinotage wine are now well known around the globe. After brushing a male Hermitage (Cinsaut) flower against a pollen donor Pinot Noir in 1925, Abraham Izak Perold created four seeds that he planted in his own garden.

The generally accepted theory about this surprisingly mismatched blend of parent grapes is that Perold was trying to create a baby with the best characteristics of mum and dad – the classic Pinot taste of burgundy with the easy-to-grow disease-resistant quality of Cinsaut.

After the experiment, Perold seemingly forgot about it and left for university, leaving his garden to overgrow. A young lecturer who knew about the four seedlings happened to cycle past the residence as a clean-up team entered the garden – he was just in time to save the seedlings.

These were re-established in the nursery at Elsenburg Agricultural College by Perold's successor, CJ Theron. In 1935 he grafted material from the seedlings on newly established Richter 99 and Richter 57 rootstock at Welgevallen. The farm Myrtle Grove near Sir Lowry's Pass will go down in history as the place where the first commercial planting of Pinotage was made.

The grapes ripened early, high sugar levels were achieved easily and the vines stayed healthy and vigorous. The early wines also showed a deeper, more intense ruby colour than either parent did. The first real recognition came in 1959 when a Bellevue red wine made from Pinotage was designated the champion wine at the Cape Wine Show.

Much of the harvest was used to bulk out popular blends, or for cheap jug wines, or was even distilled for brandy. It seemed as if the final nail had been hammered in Pinotage's coffin during a visit to South Africa by a group of British Wine Masters in 1976.

They did not like this new varietal at all. They described the nose as 'hot and horrible', and said the wine reminded them of acetone.

The flavour didn't fare much better. 'Rusty nails' was one of the more polite phrases used. Many producers then decided Pinotage had no future, and uprooted large areas of well-established Pinotage vines.

A few producers kept the faith. They continued to look for ways to improve the quality of the grape. More particularly, they concentrated their efforts in the cellar. The Diner's Club Winemaker of the Year focuses on a specific varietal or wine category.

The 1987 competition was dedicated to Pinotage. The winning wine was made by Beyer's Truter at Kanonkop. Wine lovers went back to their cellars and opened the old bottles of Pinotage that they had stored right at the back. They were very pleasantly surprised at how well the wine had aged.

Pleasant berry, banana and chocolate flavours had developed. Four years later, the same winemaker put South African Pinotage on the world wine map once again. Kanonkop's Beyers Truter was named International Winemaker of the Year at the 1991 International Wine and Spirit Competition.

He was the first South African winemaker ever to win this prestigious competition. Another delegation of British Wine Masters visited the country in the early 90s.

This time they sang Pinotage's praises. No more 'hot and horrible', or 'rusty nails'. This time they used phrases like 'excellent wine and grape variety with tremendous potential', and the 'future of South Africa', and 'Pinotage should be taken seriously'. In 1995, James Suckling, the editor of American Spectator, visited the Cape for a tasting of old Kanonkop Pinotages. He declared "What the hell is going on here? These are spectacular, spectacular!"

At last, after seventy years, South Africa's home-hero wine was receiving the kind of acclaim for which it had been waiting for.. PINOTAGE"

History of Pinot Noir

Originating in the Burgundy region of France, Pinot Noir wine is considered by some to be the best red wine in the world. The origins of the vine are obscure, and while it is possible that it originates with Roman occupation of France in the 1st Century AD, it is just as likely that it represents a French domestication of a wild bush vine. Pinot Noir is one of the wines used to create traditional French champagne, but it is also a stand-alone wine which has many fans across the globe. It has been in South Africa for many years, and was one of the two vines crossed to produce Pinotage, the country's unique wine.

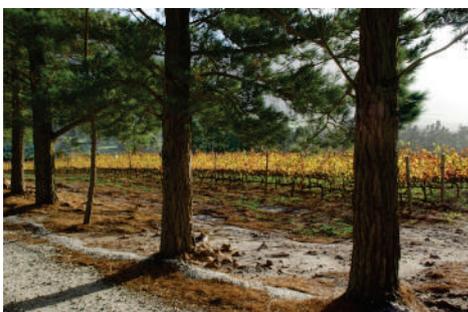

There is an enormous demand for Pinot Noir wine, both in the South African domestic market, and in the overseas markets. It is in some ways considered to be a very romantic and delicious wine that reduces wine experts to tears, but it is unpopular amongst growers due to its reputation as a very difficult cultivar. In fact, one grower observed that Pinot Noir was made by the Devil, and its sensitivity to wind, frost and cold make many growers agree. Despite this, wine makers tend to enjoy battling the wine, and its very sensitivity means that it picks up any differences in the soil, passing these on to the drinker.

Due to the nature of these differences, there is a great deal of variety in the tastes and aromas of different Pinot Noir wines. The average wine tends to have a medium body, with a deep aroma of fruits and currants. The freshly made wine will often be a deep orangy-red, rather similar to Garnet, a distinctive colour compared to similar red wines. In South Africa, the wine tends to be rather earthy, although this can depend upon the region in which it was grown, as well as the wine-making process.

There are a number of different varieties of the Pinot Noir vine, with the Pinot Gris being perhaps the best known. This genetic mutation produces different coloured grapes, and the wine inside can be yellow, orange or even pink. Pinot Meunier is also connected to the production of champagne, and is considered to be another genetic mutant from the Pinot Noir. Most wine drinkers do not realise that these two types of wine are available, or how related they are to Pinot Noir.

There are several different wine estates now producing single-varietal Pinot Noir wines, including the Haute Cabriere, made from 100 percent Pinot Noir grapes. These grapes are crushed and then matured in oak barrels for 9 months. The 2006 version has a number of cherries, raspberry and other fruit aromas, along with plenty of tannins and a pleasing quantity of acids which just tickle the palate during the aftertaste. This wine is still comparatively young for a Pinot Noir, and drinkers can expect it to mature for another 5-7 years before it will reach the full flavour of its potential.

Here in Hermanus we have the ideal climate for Pinot Noir with the gentle sea breeze providing optimum conditions. We are responsible for producing some of the world's best Pinot Noirs. If you are a guest in our area no visit is complete without a day spent in the Hemel-en-Aarde Valley.
